PROSPECTOS.

HE extraordinary success that has attended Building Societies elsewhere has led to the formation of the OUEBER BUILDING SOCIETY 3 which has for its principal object, the enabling individuals to invest their savings in the Purchase or Erection of Buildings.

A Tenant, in ten years, pays his Landlord a sum equivalent to the value of the house he occupies, and yet at the expiration of that period he has no interest in the property-but, by becoming a Member of this Society. he will be enabled to purchase or build a house, by means of a loan granted to him for that purpose, repayable by monthly instalments, little if any more than the rent which he otherwise would be paying, with this advantage -that he becomes the proprietor in ten or twelve years at most, but generally in much less time; as will appear by the following table compiled by Mr. Thomas Champion. a Director of the "Farmers' and Mechanics' Building Society," shewing the number of monthly payments of ten shillings each, that must be made to liquidate the shares of £100, the money being invested monthly to give compound interest, at the rate of half per cent per month.

Building Societies have been established, and in successful operation, in England, for upwards of a quarter of a century, and for nearly four years past in Canada, and their benefits and advantages have been fully developed and ascertained during that period. The Montreal Building Society, which is the oldest in this country, declared a premium of £10 4s. 4d. on £18 per share paid up, at its last annual statement in October 1848; but great as this dividend is compared to other investments, it is much smaller than that of some similar Societies of later formation; for instance, so successful have been the operations of one of the Upper Canada Building Societies, that persons desirous of joining new, are obliged, not only to pay up arrears, interest, and premium, but also a considerably increased admission fee.

The Shares are fixed at £100 each, and are paid up by regular monthly instalments of ten shillings for each share subscribed; thus a holder of one share can borrow or purchase £100—five Shares, £500, and so on in proportion to the number of shares he holds. The money which the Society will have to loan, will be offered to monthly competition, when every member will have an opportunity of purchasing to the extent of his shares.

The borrower or purchaser, before receiving the amount, must deposit with the Secretary the particulars of his securities, which will then be visited by the Inspector, and the titles investigated, and should both prove satisfactory, the money is advanced, charged at the rate of six per cent, per annum. Should the borrower desire to erect a dwelling-house, the money is advanced as the building progresses.

Any member, desirous of either building or purchasing a house, (whether for his own use or to rent,) or of paying for one already purchased, is thus enabled to obtain funds from the Society to an extent not exceeding the amount of his share or shares subscribed for. As security for such advance, he gives the Society a mortgage upon real estate; upon which mortgage he continues to pay the interest, merely, until the funds of the Society, from bonuses and other sources, have so increased, that the full amount of the shares subscribed for have been realized-when the Society becomes self-extinguished and terminates. Then, without having (apparently) repaid the principal, otherwise than by the monthly subscriptions before-mentioned, the mortgage is given up to him, free from all incumbrance. Without these advantages, how many difficulties are in the way of procuring loans from private persons, even for a very short term!

Capitalists can do better with their money than lending it at legal interest in the security of real estate; and many will have to be applied to, and many rebuffs and refusals given and received, before the loan-seeker can succeed.

Stockholders in a Building Society are in a different position.—They know that at certain regular periods there are sales of so many lots of money among themselves, at which all have opportunities of competing, and that the lots will be awarded to the highest bidder. Every Stockholder feels, therefore, that he can readily borrow the amount of his stock, by giving a certain bonus for it, and that he is consequently, in a great measure, independent of foreign assistance.

The borrower indirectly, and the non-borrower directly, benefits by the bonuses given, which being deducted in the first place, the Society works upon and sells as well as its other funds.

Should the bonuses average 40 per cent, the Society must become self-extinguished in a little less than seven years—say seven, however, and in that case the monthly payments on each share will amount to £42. The difference between that amount and the £100, which the invester receives at the expiration of the Society, constitutes his profits—allowing him (to save the trouble and tediousness of a long compound interest calculation) interest at 6 per cent per annum on £42 from the day on which he began to make his monthly 10s. payments towards that amount, the sum (including entrance fees, &c.,) which he really pays, for his share is, £62 10s. 3d. and his profit is, over and above legal interest, no less than £37 10s.

In Canada, bonuses have thus far averaged about! 35 per cent, although, in many instances, this rate is greatly exceeded.

Among other beneficial results to be anticipated from the establishment of Building Societies may be enumerated the following:—

- 1.—Enabling persons of small but regular incomes to apply a portion of their savings towards the acquisition of property and independence, with greater ultimate profit than can possibly accrue from a Savings' Bank; with this additional advantage, that they are at all times in a situation to profit by any cheap purchase of landed property that may present itself, by borrowing from the Society, on the easiest possible terms.
- 2. Professional men, builders, mechanics, and clerks in commercial, banking, and other establishments, are among the classes most likely to be benefited, more or less, by the institution.
- 3. Proprietors of building lots will be enabled to dispose of property which would otherwise remain on their hands for years, without producing any rent or interest whatever.

The benefits arising from these institutions must be in the exact ratio with the magnitude and extent of their operations.

The profits being derivable from the bonuses paid on money borrowed, and interest upon mortgages, these will of course be in proportion to the number of share-holders.

The utmost safety and protection from risk, are offered to capitalists (as none but Landed or Building Security will be received; personal security, however unexceptionable, will not in any case be taken) and the conduct of the affairs of the Society is under the control and management of a board of seven directors, who are chosen annually, by ballot, from among the shareholders.

The funds of the Society arising from monthly subscriptions, fees, &c., are deposited daily in one of the chartered banks of this city, and no money can be drawn out except upon the joint check of the President, or Vice-President, and Treasurer.

A regular monthly meeting of shareholders will take place, when the money on hand will be loaned; but as so much of the success of these Societies depends upon their internal management, this Society has departed from the ordinary rule, by imposing upon the Directors a regular weekly attendance, in rotation, at the office, for the purpose of supervising its current affairs.

The Directors, therefore, with the most perfect confidence, submit their Prospectus to the public, believing that they have commenced the establishment of a society which will prove of great benefit to their fellow-citizens: requesting the most searching inquiry into the history and operation of similar institutions wherever they have an existence, and referring persons desirous of more particular information to the Rules of the Society, or to any, or all of its officers.

The actual drantage is the House itself, which the Subscriber pays for in this easy manner, and which at the end of the term is his own. The respective balances of £249 5s.,£172 and £103 44s. 6d meet the difference of interest, between the amount he receives for reat and the amount he pays monthly into the Society, besides leaving a profit. From the above Examples, it is evident that a building reat and the amount he pays monthly into the Society, besides leaving a profit. From the above Examples, it is evident that a building set saily costs less, activithat anding the Bonus paid, than it would, if the money were borrowed from a ordinary leader at par.
